"Still You Rise"
By: Amarianna Doakes

Still You Rise

Sticks and stones
Might break my Bones but your
Poems rise me

Your sass your Class inspired
Me I walk with
My shoulders
High even though
You're gone still
You rise

They may lay you
Down in that coffin
Throw dirt upon that
Box but unlike gravity
You rise

May 28, 2014 Maya Angelou
Died but like the white clouds
You rise
You rise
You rise
